

Linda Brown, MPH, MCHES

Linda Brown is the Executive Director for the New Jersey Association of County and City Health Officials (NJACCHO). Prior to this role, Linda consulted with NJACCHO to support organizational operations, strategic planning, and continuing education opportunities since 2014, and supported the management of a variety of grants including Zika Education, Ebola Monitoring and a Statewide Opioid Needs Assessment.

Linda has also served as the Executive Director of the Neighborhood Connections to Health (NCTH), a Coalition based in Freehold Borough, as well as providing coordination and support for two work groups of the coalition. Linda has served as Health Educator for Freehold Area Health Department, the Westfield Regional Health Department, and the Edison Department of Health and Human Services. Outside of the non-profit and governmental sector, Linda also serves as a Part Time Lecturer at Rutgers University, with previous adjunct roles at Rowan University and Middlesex County College.

Linda is a proud Past-President for the New Jersey Society for Public Health Education (NJ SOPHE). She received a BA in Health and Exercise Science, with a Specialty in Health Promotion and Fitness Management from Rowan University, followed by a Master in Public Health with a concentration in Community Health, from West Chester University of Pennsylvania, and holds a Master Certified Health Education Specialist (MCHES) certification.
